Grassle Bros. are again building an addition to their wagon factory. As their business grows, and their capacity for work increased. We are glad to hear our farmers from every part of the county speak so highly of the Grassle Wagon, and that such splendid inducements to secure home patronage are offered.

The walls of the new mill are rapidly going up, and in a very short time the building will be completed ready for the machinery. The machinery has been purchased and a new boiler of seventy horse power capacity is being made in Quincy. A boiler of increased capacity will be put in that sufficient power above the needs of the mill may be had to run an electric light plant.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Musick started for St Joseph last night with Miss Lizzie Musick who has been in poor health for three years. Her disease being beyond the skill of home and St. Louis physicians has gone to her brain and caused insanity, the asylum being the last and only resort. St. John's Day.

Last Monday was celebrated as St. John's Day by the colored Masons of this city, and were joined in their festivities by Welcome Lodge, No. 118 of Linneus, Western Star Lodge No. 34 of Moberly and representatives from a number of other lodges in different parts of the state.

A grand parade took place in the morning, after which the crowd assembled in the park and was addressed by Rev. W. B. Owsley of Moberly, when an adjournment was had for dinner. After dinner they again assembled in the park and were addressed by T. H. Phillips, editor of the Optic, Moberly, Mo. He began speaking shortly after the announcement of the nomination of Harrison, and thus obtained the honor of opening the campaign in Adair county, as his speech was entirely political in its character. T. H. Phillips was followed by Rev. E. Q. Plummer, of Jackson, Mo., who is destined to become one of the foremost colored orators of America. He took for his subject the "Brotherhood of Man." To say that his speech was grand does not express it. A speaker more thoroughly inspired with his subject we have never heard. Logical, philosophical and with his sublime flights of eloquence, he played upon the feelings of his audience at will.

At night there was a public installation of officers at the rink, and refreshments were served. All the exercises were largely attended by the whites and he it said to the praise of the colored people, though the gathering was large and from different parts of the state, there was not one boisterous word spoken, nor a sign of intoxication throughout the day. The Moberly colored band furnished excellent music for the occasion and was highly complimented by all who appreciate good music.
